TOPICAL INDEX TO THE GENERAL HYMNS IN THE HYMNAL 1940

by the

Members of Practical Theology 13b

Spring Term 1959

This index of the general hymns has been compiled to facilitate finding good hymns, text and music, to tie in with thoughts expressed in liturgical, seasonal or special readings and topics. The compilers wish to express their gratitude to all the members of the E.T.S. community who through their suggestions, their interest and encouragement have aided the completion of this project.

Inadequate or over-sentimental texts and tunes have not been included. The compilers represented, in themselves, a cross-section of backgrounds which permitted a reasonably objective evaluation of the texts and tunes. In the course of making a detailed analysis of the hymn texts a wider variety of topics within each hymn text was brought to light.

It is hoped the minister will select the lessons months in advance and that he and the organist together will be able with the help of this index to find suitable hymns, familiar and new, which will give the worship services increased unity, significance, and beauty.

It is assumed that the opening and closing hymns of each service will be familiar to the congregation. It is hoped that advanced planning will make it easier to include from time to time new hymns which, with sufficient repetition, can become the growing edge of the congregation's enthusiastic participation in the services.

Instructions: When a tune number in ( )'s follows the text number this tune number is preferred. If the congregation knows and sings well the original tune there is no need to teach them the new tune. However, when the hymn is unfamiliar introduce it with the suggested alternative or substitute tune. It can be rehearsed before the service. It can also be used on previous Sundays as an organ prelude and as an anthem.

When there is great difficulty in locating a hymn to tie in with the selected scripture or sermon topic use a good praise, or prayer, or dedication hymn which is related in general to the collect for the day, the season, the service or sermon theme.

TOPICAL INDEX PREPARED BY MEMBERS OF
Lee,W.B.Merrill,See,Prof.Waring)

This index is intended to be used with the Topical Index of The Hymnal 1940 and the Subject Index of General Hymns. The purpose has been to select texts accorded a grade of B or better.(For those hymns with inferior music substitute tunes have been recommended.)The selected texts have been classified according to the various and major emphases discovered from their detailed analysis. An appendix summarizes suggested transpositions, substitutions, and hymns suitable as anthems or responses.
